

Cavemen came to Glasshouses and caused chaos!

Miss Jones class 3 teacher at Glasshouses Primary School was shocked at what she saw in the playground.

Miss Jones was horrified to find the police were looking for a caveman. The caveman had made a fire and left several items behind.

Miss Jones called the fire brigade to come and put out the fire.

Before she could tidy up children arrived at school.

Class 1 investigated what had been left behind.

They found spears made from wood and stone, a stone hammer and other artefacts.

Mr Langley an archaeologist helped class 1 to sort different objects into a timeline of life in Nidderdale.

The oldest artefact was from the Mesolithic period (15,000-20,000 years ago) and the most recent artefact was a piece tile that was 50-60 years old.

This has inspired us at Glasshouses Primary School to learn more about the Stone Age.

Yours excitedly,

Class 1
