News from the Practising Professors

We have had a really busy and hardworking week in the last week of this half term. In numeracy we have been taking some tests to find out what we already know and what we need to practise after the holidays. In literacy we have been working really hard to spook our readers by creating tension and suspense in our short stories.

We have really enjoyed designing Christmas cards which are going to be sent out to invite people to our Christmas play and we even listened to Christmas music whilst we worked! In science we learnt about Isaac Newton and about the Newton metre. We measure objects to see how much they weigh in grams and then compared this by weighing them with the Newton metre.

I am so impressed with the standard of homework this term and well done to all the children for managing their own time and putting so much effort in. I can't wait to mark them over the holidays.

News from Working Wolves

It has been a very hard-working week for 'The Wolves', with lots of fun thrown in as well! The children have all been working so well to do their very best in the end of half-term assessments so that they can show us how much they know. We have been very impressed by their stamina and concentration. Our 'Run a Mile a Day Challenge' has been a brilliant opportunity this week for us to get outside between assessments and get some fresh air and exercise to recharge our batteries!

The children have loved working on their Christmas card designs and we are all so proud of everything the Communications and Community Teams have been doing to get our school involved in the local area.

We were all very excited to meet Max yesterday, who will be joining us in Year 3 after the half-term holidays. The Working Wolves were all brilliant at making him feel comfortable and welcoming into our 'pack'!

We hope you all have a lovely half-term holiday and have lots of fun and exciting things to tell us about when we get back to school.

News from Talented Trolls

We have had a very healthy week. Thank you for all the wonderful creations that have been coming into school for snack time. We have been thinking of some great descriptions for the snacks that have been made and discussing about how they are healthy and what being healthy means to us. It's been a great way to get the children to try new things they might not have been introduced to yet. Also following the healthy theme, we have been completing our mile a day run. The children have shown stamina and determination when running their laps and have been excellent cheerleaders when some felt they couldn't do it.

This week has also been our assessments week. The children have worked hard on their assessments and have had an excellent attitude to approaching them, using our Growth Mindset skills.

Christmas has arrived early for talented Trolls. We put on some Christmas music and created some magical Christmas cards, ready to be printed! We also created some troll pictures for our door so that everyone knows we are the Talented Trolls. I have been well educated on the Trolls movie and have made it my mission to watch it over half term.

A huge thank you to everyone for making our first half term so lovely. The Reception children have settled in so well and it's great to see the progress everyone has made. We are very proud of all the children and feel very lucky that we get to spend all day with you. Enjoy half term!
